cHICAGO,Aprill6.—Jouett Meekin, the famous old-time pitcher of the Washington and New York Nationals, who, with Amos Rusie, won the Temple cup in 1894, is recovering from a broken ankle sustained when the cyclone recently struck New Albany, Ind. Quick thinking probably saved Meekin's life. The veteran player, now a member of the New Albany fire department, crawled under a fire truck when he heard the rear of the wind. His right leg protruded from the shalter, however, and a large ratter fall on his and.
